Take me along!

You...and this Company have a big job ahead –

we must check pollution in the South!

All of us . . . individuals, cities, counties, industry . . . must join in the battle to check pollution of our streams. If we continue to foul our supply of water, all of us will suffer.

Realizing this great need, Pomona Pipe Products has broadened its services in the sanitation field. In addition to the sanitary sewer pipe which we have been selling for generations, we now carry a complete line of other sanitation equipment, such as sewage pumping stations, treatment plants, chlorination equipment, etc.

Our technical staff is ready to help with all phases of sanitation planning, including financing and federal programs. We welcome an opportunity to be of assistance on any problem which you may have regarding waste disposal.

CLEMSON UNIVERSITY

DR. ROBERT C. EDWARDS, PRESIDENT

The Clemson University campus you visit today is experiencing a dramatic and dynamic period of emergence and development. As the state's land-grant institution, Clemson is vigorously advancing in its three-fold mission of education, research and public service.

Founded by Thomas Green Clemson, the University has grown from a modest opening in 1893 into an outstanding educational institution that stresses quality programs in its eight undergraduate colleges and school and in its Graduate School.

President Robert C. Edwards' ambition for the future, which he sees as attainable if Clemson continues and accelerates trends of the past 10 years, is for the Clemson University of 1985 to be "a great University when measured by the most discriminating standards."

New buildings, rising on the Clemson campus at a steady rate, are only one facet of the new image, behind which surges a rededication toward enriching academic goals in keeping with the University's distinguished history of contributions to American education.

Break your beard in right.

Right now your beard is in the formative stage.

You can shave it with a razor blade like your father does. And each time you do your beard will grow back a little more difficult. Until one day shaving's no longer a chore. It's an agony.

Look no further than your father's face for proof.

But fortunately, you're catching your beard at an early age. You can break it in to be just as shaveable 10 and 20 years from now as it is today.

With a REMINGTON® shaver.

And if you think the kind of shave we're selling won't be close enough for you, you're wrong.

Our new blades are sharper than anything that's been in an electric shaver before. And there's a dial that lets you adjust them for your skin and beard.

What's more, you can dial a REMINGTON electric shaver into a sideburn trimmer.

Admittedly, it costs more to buy our electric shaver than a razor and some blades.

But it's a good investment.

These next few years will determine how you and your beard will get along for the rest of your lives. ✦ SPERRY RAND® ©1969 S. R.

Frank Howard, Athletic Director and Head Football Coach

Howard's Career Varied . . .

College football is 100 years old this year, and even though there are people who will tell you that this is Frank Howard's 100th year at Clemson, they are just a little off base.

Howard is now in his 39th year on the Clemson campus, and 29 of those seasons, he has been the "Papa Tiger" of all those who have come to play under the purple and orange.

There are a dozen active coaches in the country who have won over 100 games. Howard is in fourth spot in this list of 12 and he and three others can claim 150 or more victories.

The listing at the right shows that Howard has completed 29 seasons, and no one in the nation is closer than five years to him. He is the dean of all active coaches and can lay claim to 161 victories.

Howard has either played or coached in every major bowl. The San Francisco East-West game, Montgomery's Blue-Gray and the North-South in Miami have all employed him for their post-season classics. Next January he'll go to Honolulu to coach in the Hula Bowl.

There has not been a facet of football Howard hasn't touched from the Pee Wee League on up. Football has brought Howard fame and Howard has brought honor to the game. He was a voting member for three years on the powerful rules committee and has served on many other committees making the game a better one for the ones who play it and for those who watch it.

The 1969 season is Howard's 43rd with collegiate football. Conference championships and coach-of-the-year awards have come his way, he can talk of bowl victories and All-American players.

Football is his life, not just 10 Saturdays a year.

We're a people company

Our business is textiles. But we're a people company, too.

Springs has always been known for the importance it attaches to people. This attitude shows in our profit-sharing plans, our system of 26 employee cafeterias, our medical program with five full-time doctors and 28 registered nurses who staff a dozen medical clinics. And in many other ways.

Out of this concern for people has grown a strong feeling of mutual respect. Don't take our word for it. Ask the 19,500 people who work in Springs' 22 plants in North and South Carolina.

VINCE DOOLEY
Head Football Coach, University of Georgia

The Georgia Series

Coach Frank Howard has had more success with the Dooley from North Carolina than the Dooley from Georgia, and the brother who has given the dean of American football coaches the most trouble is of prime concern this afternoon.

Coach Vince Dooley, who has blasted the Georgia Bulldogs into the national gridiron picture since coming to Athens in 1964, has another "loaded club" this season.

The Bulldogs have had five straight winners under Dooley, have been to four post-season bowls and have seen their 37-year-old leader named Southeastern coach-of-the-year three times.

Where Howard has beaten the Tar Heels' Bill Dooley twice, he has failed to defeat Vince in four attempts.

The Tigers gained a tie (7-7) at Clemson in 1963 and everybody remembers that one. Kicking off in 83 degree temperature, but by halftime, the field looked like Christmas. A sudden, unsuspecting hail storm hit just as the half ended. And anyone who was in it will never forget it.

That year ended Johnny Griffith's three-year stand at Georgia. The next season Dooley's Dogs began their astronomical climb to success.

Clemson has won 10 of 38 previous games while losing 25 and having three ties with the Bulldogs.

After Georgia won the first three (1897-98-99), the Tigers reeled off seven straight wins between 1900 and 1906. In the first 20 games of the series, Clemson took nine, Georgia 10 and there was a tie.

But beginning after another tie (0-0) in 1919, the Bulldogs captured 10 straight before Clemson could triumph again in 1955.

Two years ago in "Death Valley" before 46,362 fans, the Bulldogs built up a 17-3 halftime lead and appeared to have the upper hand all the way. But Clemson came back in the third quarter to score two quick touchdowns to bring about a 17-17 tie.

However, the Bulldogs pulled their forces together and ground out a fourth quarter drive which netted another touchdown for a 24-17 triumph.

Just a shade over 59,000 jammed the newly enlarged Sanford Stadium last year and there was nothing but Bulldog success all afternoon.

After Donnie Hampton experienced difficulty moving the team, sophomore Mike Cavan came on and the rest is history. He completed 14 of 26 passes for 225 yards and two touchdowns with only one interception. Clemson's one bright spot was an 108-yard punt return of an aborted field goal by Richie Luzzi.

The Bulldogs were big winners, 31-13.

RAT SEASON

CLEMSON'S TIME-TESTED TRADITION

Throughout the world of literary fantasy the "witching hour" of midnight has always imparted the significance of some special event or happening. Midnight tonight will prove to be no exception for some 1,600 Clemson University freshmen as another "Rat Season" comes to an end at the stroke of 12.

Clemson's Rat System, one of the University's oldest traditions, was originally inaugurated to help incoming freshmen become more accustomed to University life and activities. Although the system is not mandatory, participation through the years has averaged better than 99 per cent of each entering freshman class.

During Clemson's all-military years, early records mention that Rat Season lasted the entire freshman year and consisted of little more than upperclassmen razzing freshmen or spirited intramural football games between these same two groups.

As time passed and Clemson's enrollment increased, the tempo of Rat Season pranks picked up and elaborate tricks were devised to fool the gullible freshman. One incident involved an announcement in the dining hall that the University's dairy facility was on the blink and that 300 gallons of ice cream would be distributed on a first come basis. The entire freshman class immediately abandoned its meal, grabbed any available containers, and descended on the dairy only to find that the announcement was a hoax.

In 1956, Rat Season received its first "shot in the arm" when the Student Assembly adopted a set of rules and regulations defining freshmen activities.

This was also the year that the small orange cap emblazoned with a bright purple Block "C" became the symbolic and traditional badge of identification for the Clemson Rat.

Rat Season 1969 has retained most of the features set forth in the 1956 rules and regulations. Rat hats, colorful Rat ribbons worn in the hair of freshmen coeds, the President's picnic, and the freshman cheering section very much in evidence at today's game are all part of the Clemson way of life. Rat Season today is not a reflection of outdated traditions, but is indicative of the spirit, devotion and loyalty felt by every Clemson freshman, upperclassman, and alumnus for their Alma Mater.

The 1969 Georgia Bulldogs . . .

Less than a half hour from Clemson there's this wild building that contains a fascinating story. It's really something. Walk through display chambers filled with sight and sound. Tune in on the future and the past. Sit in a darkened room and spy on huge nuclear reactors taking shape outside. The whole thing's about electricity and how it's made. For an interesting and entertaining show, go to the Keowee-Toxaway Visitors Center. Open FREE OF CHARGE weekdays 10-5, Sundays 1-5. Picnic area overlooks the lake.

FORD MAVERICK $1995*

When you make a maverick car, you paint it maverick colors. Bright, bold colors with names to match. And Maverick gives you much more. You get an economy car that rivals the imports in price—and tops them in power, performance, and room.

Maverick's 105 horses lets you get up to 70-mph turnpike speeds in a hurry. Yet Maverick's gas mileage is what you might expect in an import.

Maverick's wheelbase is 8 inches shorter than a '69 Falcon, and its turning circle is even smaller than VW.

Inside, cheerful interiors and 9-in. more shoulder room in the front seat than a VW. In back, a real trunk (10.4 cu. ft.).

Maverick is designed to be easy to service. Parts and service are handled by over 6,000 Ford Dealers. So say farewell to old paint. Say hello to Maverick, the first car of the '70s . . . at 1960 prices.

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for the car. Price does not include: optional white sidewall tires, $32.00; dealer preparation charge, if any; transportation charges, state and local taxes.

Clemson Radio Network . . .

Phillips

Buchanan

The Clemson Football Network, one of the largest university-operated networks in the nation, enters its 16th year in 1969.

Throughout the '68 season, the network averaged 54.7 stations a game which is the highest average in Clemson history.

The Clemson Athletic Department wholly operates the network which has averaged over 50 stations a game for the past eight years.

The play-by-play will be handled by Jim Phillips with Bruce Buchanan the color man. Both are on the staff of WFBC Radio and TV in Greenville and will be entering their second year on the Clemson network.

Phillips, WFBC sports director, succeeded Bill Goodrich while Buchanan replaced Jim Kingman.

Phillips, with 16 years of broadcasting behind him, came to WFBC from his native Ohio. Phillips spent his first eight years in all phases of radio and television announcing while the last eight have been in program and sports directing.

Phillips was affiliated with WFAH, Alliance, WATG, Ashland and WIMA, Lima, all in Ohio. He came to WFBC from WFAH where he was program and sports director since 1961.

He has spent seven years doing high school and college play-by-play in football and basketball. Before coming to Greenville, Phillips was play-by-play reporter for the Kent State University Sports Network.

Buchanan is the general manager of WFBC Radio and is well-known in sports broadcasting circles throughout the Carolinas. He has done a variety of high school sports for many years.

Buchanan has been closely associated with Clemson athletics for the past 16 years.

Clemson Network listeners can expect an accurate and colorful picture commentary of action taking place on the field each Saturday with Phillips as "The Voice of the Tigers" and Buchanan's colorful comments.

SCHOOL OF NURSING

Clemson Concentrates On Shortage Of Nurses

Nursing, along with other health disciplines, has as its goal the optimum health for individuals, families and communities.

With this in mind, the programs in the Clemson University School of Nursing are focused on the preparation of the nursing practitioner.

Established in 1968, the School of Nursing offers to men and women students a baccalaureate program leading to the Bachelor of Science degree in Nursing and a program leading to the Associate in Arts degree.

The baccalaureate program prepares professional nurses for work with patients in hospitals, industry, public health agencies and other areas, as well as provide the foundation for graduate study in nursing. The associate degree program is designed to provide nurses for the care of patients in hospitals.

Graduates of both programs are eligible to take the licensing examination for the practice of nursing in South Carolina, and upon successful completion become Registered Nurses.

Under guidance of the faculty, students of both programs gain practice with patients in nearby cities. In the four-year program, students use clinical facilities in units of Greenville Hospital System and other local public health agencies. Those in the two-year program utilize the Anderson Memorial Hospital for clinical nursing experience.

The School of Nursing has scholarships and loan funds available through private and federal sources, and participates in the U. S. Army Nurse Corps' student nurse program.

"The need for nurses," remarks Dean Geraldine Labecki of the School of Nursing, "is critical in South Carolina and other southern states." She notes the Southern region's present supply is 198 nurses per 100,000 population, in contrast with 319 per 100,000 for the nation as a whole.

Dean Labecki also adds that a graduate program is contemplated for nurses who are interested in preparing to be clinical nursing specialists—a critical area for the state's health institutions and agencies.

The 1969 Georgia Bulldogs . . .

ACC Comments: The ACC Football Game I Remember:

ED CHALUPKA, North Carolina Guard: The ACC game I remember best has to be our 25-14 victory over Duke last fall. We had upset Duke in the last game of my sophomore season the year before and we were definitely the underdogs when the Blue Devils came to Chapel Hill last season. But Coach Dooley had a great game plan and it worked perfectly all afternoon. We were able to stop Leo Hart, who is a truly sensational player, and once we started stopping him there was never much question about which team would win. We were all caught up in the excitement of the win over our big rival. It was a great game for the entire team . . . one I'm sure we won't soon forget.

RALPH SONNTAG, Maryland Tackle: When you have suffered through a losing season, it's easy to decide which game you remember most. For me, the unforgettable date was October 12, 1968, when Maryland beat North Carolina, 33-24, to break a 16-game losing streak. The Tar Heels were ahead by four points to start the fourth quarter, but Al Thomas scored a touchdown to put us in front, 26-24. Our defense then stopped Carolina on fourth down at its 49 and we went in for the clinching touchdown. I'll always remember that touchdown play. My job was blocking on a play-action pass. Everything was perfect as Alan Pastrana completed a 16-yarder to Rick Carlson, and we won by 33-24.

JOE DOBNER, Wake Forest Center: Looking back over the past two seasons, I would have to say the 1967 game against South Carolina, my sophomore year, is the one I remember the most. Going into that contest we had won only one of our first seven games. South Carolina had not lost an ACC game up to that point, and we were the underdogs. Everything seemed to fall into place and we rolled to a 35-21 victory. I personally felt I played my best game of the year. The victory was just the tonic we needed since we all knew we had beaten a good football team. We went on to defeat Tulsa and Maryland in the final two games of the season, and close out the year with four successive victories.

BOB RANNIGAN, Virginia Safetyman: I'll remember our 41-6 win over North Carolina last year for a long time. It was a rainy day and there was much skepticism as to the potency of our team on a wet field. Before leaving the bus Coach Blackburn told us to forget everything but football, because only good football would win. From the very start it was our game. The offense moved the ball well and scored consistently. The defense hit and hustled enough to blank the Tar Heels until the final minute of play. It was the most satisfying team effort I had ever been a part of.

LEO HART, Duke Quarterback: My most memorable game would have to be our opening game of the season last fall against the University of South Carolina. It was my first experience with varsity football in competition and, to say the least, I was awestruck playing away from home in front of a partisan capacity crowd in Carolina Stadium. But I knew it was my responsibility to try to carry the team and guide it to victory. As it was, there probably was not a more fortunate individual in the stadium that night. We won the game, 14-7, and I don't think I've ever seen a happier bunch of guys in our dressing room. Truly, it was my most memorable game.

GARY YOUNT, N. C. State Defensive Back: The ACC game I remember the most would have to be the Duke game of 1967. I was the back-up safety behind Art McMahon and Greg Williams and I hadn't played much all year. But Greg hurt his hip early in the game, thus giving me my first big chance to play. I had a pretty good game, but that is not what I remember most. On the last play of the game with two seconds left, I intercepted a pass and was in the clear for a touchdown when two players came off the Duke bench and tackled me. This was the most weird thing that has ever happened to me in a football game and I will remember it always.

CHARLIE WATERS, Clemson Flanker: Since I've been at Clemson, the game I remember most is the mid-season battle between two big ACC contenders—the 1968 meeting of N. C. State and Clemson. The stage was set in the first 26 seconds of the game when both teams accumulated over 156 yards and two touchdowns. This early exchange of the lead told the story for the afternoon. Twice we fell behind, but twice we caught up. My heart dropped and rose like a yo-yo when I'd think we had the game wrapped up, then we'd lose the lead again. The game ended in a fury similar to the beginning with the Tigers driving 80 yards in less than a minute to outlast the Wolfpack for a 24-19 storybook finish.

FRED ZEIGLER, South Carolina End: Strange as it may seem, the game I remember the most is one I did not get to play. It is the Clemson game of last fall. I had suffered a broken collar bone the week before and was unable to play. But with the opening kickoff I forgot my disappointment and became completely engrossed in the contest. We had not had a good year so this game meant the entire season to us. I was so excited that a Pinkerton man almost arrested me for running onto the field several times. The game seemed to me it would never end. I even had to take a sedative at halftime. Our boys played great football and came away with our greatest win since I have been at South Carolina.

NEW CAMPUS BUILDINGS: James C. Littlejohn Coliseum (1); Schilletter Hall, East Campus cafeteria (2); Strode Tower for faculty offices (3); Manning and Lever Halls, East Campus dormitories (4); D. W. Daniel Hall, classroom building (5); Sam R. Rhodes Engineering Research Center (6).

Up, Up And Away

Construction cranes are challenging Tillman Hall clock tower as the symbol of Clemson University.

During the past several years, towering cranes have overlooked at least five major expansions at the University:

—Two modern high-rise dormitories, Manning and Lever halls, each of which houses 432 students.

—Multimillion-dollar James C. Littlejohn Coliseum, the spacious new home of the Clemson basketball team which also serves as focal point for campus entertainment and academic events.

—Schilletter Hall, the East Campus dining facility which accommodates 2,000 students at a single meal.

—Redfern Health Center, a modern 34-bed hospital and campus infirmary.

Recently completed or to be completed soon are three major buildings designed to advance the frontiers of knowledge at Clemson and in the state. These are D. W. Daniel Hall, a classroom building for English and Modern Languages; Strode Tower, an adjoining 10-story faculty office tower; and the Sam R. Rhodes Engineering Research Center whose space and laboratories will be primarily devoted to health related graduate education and research programs.

When students met classes on August 22 for the first day of the Fall semester, additional new construction was under way. A third high-rise residence hall to help house the steadily-increasing enrollment is emerging from its East Campus location.

These facilities represent the initial stage of a $60 million building program that will dramatically affect every phase of University activity. Other vitally needed additions to the campus are in the planning stages, with target dates set for completion.

Major immediate needs include a University Union building, a student activities building, a new building to provide adequate space and laboratory facilities for the biological sciences, an urgently needed facility to accommodate a critical overflow in the School of Architecture, and a building to house the forestry department.

In addition, major renovations on several existing buildings and more housing for single and married students are planned.

Greater Spartanburg is a little greater because of us.

When the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Spartanburg built a new building, it was built out of Boren Brick.

Whenever an entire association of business and professional people can get together on one product, it says something for that product.

Happily for us, the brick they got together on was ours.

If the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Spartanburg is a little greater because of us, then we're a little greater because of it.

Clemson Is Tiger Country

Clemson University is located in the northwest corner of the state, but its educational, research and public service programs extend from the red hills of the Blue Ridge Mountains to the sandy coast of the Atlantic Ocean.

Founded as one of the nation's land-grant universities, Clemson opened in 1893 with 15 faculty members, 446 students, four buildings, two barns and six silos.

Today Clemson University is a center of scientific, technological and liberal education in the state.

Main campus enrollment has grown to almost 6,800 young men and women, including nearly 700 graduate students. Some 400 additional undergraduate students are attending two-year programs at centers in Greenville and Sumter. The faculty numbers over 600. The main campus has 55 buildings on 600 acres.

Teaching and research at Clemson University cover studies as down to earth as soil and plant analysis and as far out as celestial navigation.

Instruction programs are offered through 40 academic departments under eight undergraduate colleges and school: Agriculture and Biological Sciences, Architecture, Education, Engineering, Liberal Arts, Industrial Management and Textile Science, Physical and Mathematical Sciences, and Nursing.

Clemson conducts research projects ranging from ceramic bone implants to oxygen consumption in the brain and from a disposable glass container to water pollution.

The research and academic know-how at Clemson work as catalytic agents to the entire economy and life of South Carolina -- through the Agricultural Extension Service, the Agricultural Experiment Stations, the Professional Development Program and the Office of Industrial and Municipal Relations.

The IPTAY Story

The Clemson IPTAY Club is now in its 36th year of operation. As Chris Suber, president, recently said, "In looking back over the past 35 years and noting the progress that IPTAY has made, I cannot help but be thankful for all of the people, both friends and graduates of Clemson University, who have made this progress possible.

"In any organization of this size and age, we find a few unhappy members; however, the percentage is very small and in most cases, the unhappiness is short lived.

"Nothing that can be done creates more happiness than to have winning teams. This we hope to have with the continuing help of IPTAY."

IPTAY was born for just one purpose—to finance athletic scholarships at Clemson. That is still the way IPTAY is run today. The money received by the club is used solely for scholarships.

During the season just closed there were 6,963 regular ($20) members, 1,219 $100 Gold Card members, 26 in the $500 category and 11 who gave $1,000.

The 1968-69 year, which came to a close September 1, has been the most successful financial year in IPTAY history. The increase in contributions amounted to about 35 per cent above the best previous year.

To have a successful drive each year, much planning goes into organizing during each summer. South Carolina is broken down into six districts, each with a director, who also may be an officer in IPTAY. Each district has a group of representatives and here the number of representatives depend on the population, or territory to be covered.

The main concern of the representatives is to see that a successful membership drive is carried out each year. The method of each person differs in that some areas stage short, intensive annual drives and others keep up the peace year round.

Directors and representatives serve as a liaison between Clemson and their particular area. IPTAY, with its district directors and representatives, working with loyal Clemson friends, is a close-knit, hard-hitting organization when its forces are marshalled for a fight to help Clemson.

Anyone, regardless of alma mater or age who is interested in seeing the Tigers retain a respected ranking in their athletic endeavors, can become a member of IPTAY by contributing $20 or more a year. All money contributed is tax deductible.

A contribution to IPTAY is an investment in the future. IPTAY "alumni" are its best advertisement. IPTAY has had a bright past. Its future is just as glowing.
